Monaro Musings, Volume 25, Number 11 – December 2016

From the President's Soapbox

November was marked by a very successful bush dance join in with the Bush Capital Band at the National Portrait Gallery Country Fair day, quite a few dancers turning up and encouraging a lot of participation by the general public in attendance. Major plaudits to all of the musos and dancers who showed everyone what we do well and succeeded in getting so many people involved.

Christmas now looms large and with it the flurry of final events for the year before the closing down of most MFS activities until February.

- * Dancing in the Park commences in December and continues through January.
- * The Christmas Bush Dance will be held this coming Saturday 3rd with its associated Kids' Dance at the Yarralumla Woolshed: don't forget there will be a BYO picnic at 6.30pm.
- * The final Merry Muse for 2016 at the Irish Club will be on Sunday December 4th featuring Chris McGinty.
- * Irish Set Dance finishes up on Wednesday 14th December with their traditional Christmas party and the final Contra dance night will be on Tuesday 20th.
- * At the New Years' Eve Bush dance at the Woolshed music will be by Franklyn B Paverty with Bob Buckley calling.

While January is always marked by a number of festivals, notably Illawarra and Numeralla, there are two society events occurring:

- * On Sunday January 1st at the Irish Club there is a free sit-around Merry Muse acoustic music session and all are welcome to come, join in and recover from New Year's Eve.

* On January 7th and 8th the annual Contra Club weekend is held at Wee Jasper. This begins with the Saturday in-house concert in the cave, followed by a BBQ and then a Contra dance at the Wee Jasper Memorial Hall. Many people come to camp for the weekend at Billy Grace Reserve and the following morning there is a music session. We are hoping to build this weekend into more of a music gathering, encouraging other musos to come out and check that all their gear (camping and music) is in working order before Illawarra and Numeralla. If you are interested feel free to contact Rob or Geoff.

Finally, the MFS committee thanks all the organisers and helpers who have created such successful events this year and all the members who have attended and supported those events. Our best wishes to you all for the Christmas and New Year season.

Geoff

Eleanor McEvoy, Canberra Irish Club, 29 October, by Declan O'Connell

You know a gig is going to turn out well when the power for the main act's guitar fails in the first song and she nonchalantly steps down from the stage to launch into an unplanned unplugged version of Joni Mitchell's Carey. Eleanor McEvoy was in a good mood and she was going to entertain us. As she started so she continued, back on stage and with the equipment working. We were in a good mood already with a fine Dublin opening for a Dublin artist from the acoustic duo version of Night Potion.

McEvoy charmed us with a lovely mixture of her own songs and covers of songs made famous by the likes of the Beach Boys, Edith Piaf, Prince, Bob Dylan and Irish composer Thomas Moore (1779-1852). She told us she was a mad Thomas Moore fan, to the extent of having to knock on the door, talk to the current occupants and check out the house he lived in. Her covers made old songs new through sensitive and interesting reinterpretation. Her own songs were mainly about relationships, the wrong man or thinking about the wrong man. A powerful song, Deliver Me, starkly charted the havoc wreaked by child abuse in a Dublin parish. My favourite song was an a capella one, The D J. I'm biased. I'm a radio presenter. But that's not the only reason I liked it. It celebrates the power of music, something a good gig like Eleanor McEvoy's does as well:

*Tonight the D.J.'s letting his mood decide
Sliding up the fader on a song that so reveals what's on his mind
I sip my drink and I thank the Lord for music sweet and slow
So vital to my soul
And so needed in our times
So my radio stays on*

Ed's Note: I was hoping to write a few words about the Major's Creek Festival and the final night for the year at Murrumbateman. This was the last time that Eric and Shirley Johns and David Grant were officiating, and it was a lovely night of nostalgia and homage to some of our absent friends.. Unfortunately I ran out of space and time but I did manage to squeeze a few of my photos onto the front page which are, clockwise from left: Dan McFeeley; a sub-group of the Shiny Bum Singers; Sandy Gibbney and Pete Richens; Dianne of the Thousand Hats Porter and Geoff Kell up front with Eric Johns, Dan McFeeley and Baz Cooper in the background.
