From the President's Soapbox

The passing of Mike Paterson last week was a shock to us all, even though we were aware of his struggle with cancer which had hospitalised him a number of times. As a longstanding member of Woolies Home Band and then the Bush Capital Band, Mike's concertina playing and dry sense of humour will be sadly missed at Monday bushdance workshops. Vale Mike.

Bundanoon Dance Festival was once again a great success – one of the attendees commented to me that it is getting better each year. Peter Gamble's success at the NFF in winning the Traditional Social Dance Association of Victoria's annual award for Best General Social Dance was acknowledged with the presentation of the shield. His contra-style dance, Mary's Lament, will doubtless go into our dance programs.

This month we say bon voyage to Claude Barret, who returns to France this month after a couple of years as a valued attendee at dance workshops and events. Claude gave us great assistance at the MFS promotional event and has subsequently prepared an organisational project document for future participation at the NFF for which we thank him. His happy face will be missed – Veronique will be here for another month before also returning to France.

Finally, don't forget the inaugural Kids Dance at Ainslie on Saturday 8th July if you know anyone with primary age children. Details at www.monarofolk.org.au.

Some thoughts about the Bundanoon Dancefest from Eileen Newmarch:

I spent the June long weekend at the Bush Traditions Bundanoon Dancefest . This was my first time and I really enjoyed it - there were a variety of workshops of different dance genres, even Morris dancing if you are brave - I wasn't. I found the workshops varied - I did the Contra, Scottish Country Dancing, the workshops by Bruce Hamilton from the US and Royally Yours and Odds and Sods called by Mark Simmons. I particularly enjoyed the Odds and Sods and there were no couple dances in the workshop, so no difficulties finding a partner, and the workshops by Bruce Hamilton, particularly the Creamy and Crunchy workshop, which included some lovely tips for making the dances flow.

Many thanks to the Bush Traditions crew for a well-organised weekend of dance.

Out and About .....

Pete West writes about the Mary Coughlan concert in June:

On the night of June 04 Mary and I and a warmly enthusiastic packed house enjoyed a wonderful performance at Canberra Irish Club's Auditorium Lounge by Irish singer Mary Coughlan with Irish guitar legend Jimmy Smyth and Sheamus Von Luken on bass. Mary's singing was powerful on original songs and covers; and she delivered masterful covers of songs like Love Will Tear Us Apart, Whiter Shade of Pale and I'd Rather Go Blind. Her presence on stage was engaging and her personal anecdotes contextualised the songs.

Full House!

Sheamus von Luken and Mary Coughlan

The accompaniment by Jimmy and Sheamus was absolutely superb. For my money, Sheamus and Jimmy were equally the stars on the night. With good sound provided by Pete Richens and friendly service from Club staff, it was a wonderful show from all viewpoints, the best we've been to in a long while. Thanks to Cassidy Richens and the Canberra Irish Club for bringing it to us.

Pete and Mary also enjoyed Sessionfest at Morriset over the June long weekend

Brent Rogers of the NHVFC

Mary Martin and I very much enjoyed this year's rainy but music packed Sessionfest hosted by the Newcastle and Hunter Valley Folk Club on the long weekend June 9-12 at Morisset Showground, at which the NHVFC celebrated its 50th year.

As our friend Toni Davies wrote "A wonderful time was had by all who braved the weather. A feast of music and song, laughter and tears, joy and reminiscences, friendships old and new".

Here are reflections about the festival posted by Dallas De Brabander of Ecopella Canberra:- Considering the amount of rain there was until it suddenly fined up on Monday, I believe it was one of the best Sessionfests I've experienced (and I've been to quite a few now). The long gumboots really came into their own! Sloshing around in the mud and wet grass was very satisfying and I never got wet.

We had two great venues with heating. A great sound system (and sound engineers) for blackboards in the larger shed and a nice intimate feel in the smaller hall for quieter sessions and workshops. I met some wonderful new friends and hopefully gained some new singers for the Newcastle branch of Ecopella. I used up pretty much my entire repertoire of songs doing blackboards with Miguel and even did a solo spot on one blackboard session.

I enjoyed a small session on Sunday night with Matthew and Kathleen Clarke (Sweet Songs and Soft Guitar) and I was so impressed with the depth, quality and range of the music they presented over the weekend that I have invited them to do a house concert at my place next year. Miguel, Matthew, Kathleen and I performed as Ecopella for one blackboard session with Kathleen singing soprano (learned that weekend!). Congratulations to Matt for his first Ecopella gig.

Many thanks to Brent Rodgers of the NHVFC and his amazing team of volunteers for making us all so comfortable on what must have been a very challenging weekend of wetness.

Fairport Convention Celebrates 50 Years

I was lucky enough, when in England recently, to be present when the band hit Birmingham Town Hall during its Spring tour to celebrate reaching 50. Only one of the five current members – Simon Nicol – was part of the very first gig in a hall in Golders Green on May 27th 1967. That line-up was Ashley Hutchings, Simon Nicol, Richard Thompson and Shaun Frater – he played only for that first show. Many have come and gone since then but now Simon Nicol (guitars, vocals), Chris Leslie (vocals, mandolin, bouzouki, violin, banjo, tenor guitar), Ric Sanders (violin, bass ukulele), Dave Pegg (bass guitar, mandolin, bass ukulele, vocals) and Gerry Conway (drums, percussion) form the current band. They are all still playing well, the singers are in good voice and a bit of banter adds to the entertainment. Ric Sanders is a virtuoso on the fiddle – his main instrument – and has a wildness in his playing. Simon Nicol's deep voice is very fine and when he, Dave Pegg and Chris Leslie combine the harmonies are excellent. The audience was very enthusiastic and clearly nostalgic but not as large as I expected for such an event. There were songs and tunes, traditional and contemporary, my favourite being Ralph McTell's The Girl from the Hiring Fair, a song I've always loved.

The band recorded an album last year to celebrate the upcoming milestone – it's called 50:50@50 and contains 14 tracks, seven of which are studio recordings and seven live from various concerts. Of course I bought it, and have been playing it during Making Waves on 2XX (Tuesday to Friday mornings from 6.00 to 7.00 am, presented by Pete West on Tuesdays and by me on the other days). I also bought the very sumptuous Anniversary Tour Programme which is full of information, anecdotes and photos and definitely worth whatever I paid for it! If any of you out there are big Fairport fans and would like to borrow it please drop me an email or give me a call (tina\_lynam@hotmail.com or 0403 599 790).

The culmination of the celebrations will be Fairport's Cropredy Convention which is held near Banbury in Oxfordshire. This year it will run from Thursday 10th to Saturday 12th August and various former members of Fairport will be joining in. Richard Thompson is one of them and is also doing a solo concert. There are numerous other performers on the bill as well, the most unexpected one being Petula Clark – not quite sure what she'd be doing at a Folk Festival. I do wish I could pop back over to be there but it is rather a long way!
