

Monaro Musings Editor's Report

I continue to produce the Musings at anything from four to eight pages per issue. Currently around 100 are sent out by post and a similar number by email. The numbers include a few complimentary copies sent to other folk societies, the NFF and the NLA etc. The Musings is also on the Members' area of the new website.

The cost of printing is around $1 per copy for the eight-page issues and, of course, less for the smaller ones. The cost of postage has risen recently. I am trying to avoid having to use priority labels by preparing the Musings a bit earlier.

A rough figure for printing and postage together is probably around $160 per issue on average and there are 11 issues each year.

Many thanks to Linda Aunela and Eileen Newmarch for preparing the Dancing About section and the Merry Muse notice respectively each month. I would welcome more input from the general membership, for example reviews of concerts, festivals, CDs, including events elsewhere in Australia and overseas. Articles about upcoming events of interest to our members are also useful.
